President Eisenhower resumes his duties at the White House after a long stay away due to his illness. "I am deeply honored that so many of you should come down to welcome Mrs Eisenhower and me back to Washington. It has been a little longer stay than we had planned, but the circumstances you will understand."

John Gilbert Graham (23) of Denver is arrested for sabotaging a United Airlines plane on November 1, causing it to crash. Forty-four persons died in the crash. Graham had been in debt and took $37,500 worth of insurance on his mother at the Denver airport where she boarded the plane. Graham admitted he placed a bomb in the bottom of her luggage and set to 90 minutes. Wreckage and bodies were scattered over a two-mile area. Graham was also in line to inherit $150 thousand from his mother's estate.

Former pro-baseball player Ty Cobb wins a $50 thousand lawsuit over a civil suit filed by a wealthy rancher - who said he was injured in a fight with Cobb over a dinner check.

Former Illinois governor Adlai Stevenson announces he will vigorously seek renomination next year as the Democratic presidential candidate. "In the first place, I believe it important for the Democratic party to resume the executive direction of our national affairs ... Second, I am assured that my candidacy would be welcomed by representative people in and out of my party throughout the country ... Third, I believe any citizen should make whatever contribution he can to the search for a safer, saner world."

Despite a deadlock with Russia at Geneva, President Eisenhower says the U.S. "will never admit defeat" in its quest for world peace. "Success may be long in coming, but no setback, no obstacle to progress will ever deter this government and our people from the great effort to establish a just and durable peace."
